

The Torrid Zone-I The Equatorial Rainforests

5.6.2020

Chapter-5

(B) Fill in the blanks.

1. In the Equatorial regions the temperature rises very high during the day.
2. Water in the water bodies gets heated and changes from liquid to vapour and rises too.
3. In the higher altitudes the vapour cools and forms clouds.
4. Late in the afternoon, they become heavy and come down as raindrops accompanied with thunder and lightning.
5. These are called convictional rainfall.

(C) Match the following:

- |                              |                     |
|------------------------------|---------------------|
| 1. Equatorial Rainforests    | a) Canopy           |
| 2. Convictional type         | b) Shabono          |
| 3. Umbrella of tree branches | c) 4 O' clock Rains |
| 4. Flesh eating              | d) Selvas           |
| 5. Oval shaped housing       | e) Piranha          |
-

(D) Name the following:

1. Trees rising above the canopy.
Emergent layer.
2. Strong roots to support tall trees.
Buttress roots.
3. The mineral found in Malaysia.
Tin.
4. Primitive tribe of Papua New Guinea.
Huli.
5. The shortest people of the world.
Pygmies.